TED DEMPSTER

GIANT APE

It was just another summer day in New York City, except a 400foot Gorilla was tearing the city apart. As a last resort Ted Dempster, ace 'tec, had been called in to assist....

Building by building the ape was flattening the whole city.

It's gotten our building!

CRUNCH!

It grabbed women, but unlike King Kong it squeezed them 'til their heads came off.

Grrr! Oik?? Der.... It's head's come off of it!!

Jeez!!!

Curiously, it stopped at every bank and carefully grabbed vast sums of money and gold bullion....

C'mon loot, getcha' ass the hell out!

THE BANK

Gee! A whole bunch of doh!!

The mayor was worried...

Heem!

Goddam monkey son of a bitch!!!

Was it too late for Dempster to save the city from this giant gorilla of doom? Could he possibly succeed where both the army and police had failed, or would New York and it's inhabitants be crushed to pulp?

Suddenly Dempster turns on the mayor and blasts him in the gut...

Hey, what's with the shooter pal... AGH!!

PUNK!!!

As the mayor's body fell to the ground, the ape mysteriously vanished!

Dempster explained...

It was all a trick by the mayor, using a projector hidden in his pipe. The mayor was in fact bank robber Stig Smith in disguise!

And so another case is closed by Dempster, and New York is saved and the people are very relieved.

BUSINESS NEWS

A DIARY

BY ARTHUR 2-STROKE

MONDAY

Open the mail, invitation to a tupperware party. (mmm, think I'll go to that), letter from Las Vegas confirming my week long engagement at Caesars Palace. Nice support bill they've got me, Tom Jones and Sinatra.

Glance at my Rolex, 12.30, just time for a quick dip in the pool followed by toast, a dry Martini, and a recycled Woodbine for afters. (Old habits die hard).

6 O'clock - Yummy, tomato sauce sandwiches.

TUESDAY

Wake up at 3 O'clock in the morning. Am bored and have a big stiffon. I try not to stick the pages together.

WEDNESDAY

4.10 PM - Go out spotting shirt sleeve in the middle of winter boys.

Decide to award myself some medals.

Get a phone call from Wavis - it convinces me I'm not as mad as him yet. He tells me about his new acquaintance. This new mate has a circle of three friends, his mother, Wavis and the girl in Box 3 at 10.40 on a Tuesday morning. Wavis bends my ear about him, the fact that he plays synthesizer and lives in his wardrobe. "Shall we go ahead with the 32 track single?" inquires Wavis. "Yes!" I yawn.

THURSDAY

Busy all day robbing £4 million in silver bullion. Ha ha! Haven't helped police with their inquiries yet. Bunged D.I. Pyke a taster to keep his marf shut.

FRIDAY

The weekend starts here! I slip on my 100% mohair suit. I fed my robots today. They got new rabbit flavoured status and crunchy career opportunities. Listen to my favourite record "Die Robots" by the Silicon Chips.

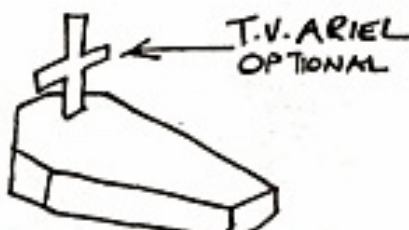

SATURDAY

I fly to Vegas in my private fastest plane in the world. Starsky and Hutch drop round and Hutch forces his new demo tape on me and offers me a part in their new film. Then I KILL KOJAK.

SUNDAY

Make guest appearance on Circuit 11, Miami. Money is no object, so my brief is Perry Mason. We lose the case and I get sentenced to death on the electric chair. After waiting 22 years on Death Row, I die. My servants put me in my cryonic tomb and Dr Christian Barnard brings me back to life at a rip-off price..... A massive theme tune echoes across the cosmos, a voice says. "POKE IT UP YOUR DIRT BOX!"

DANCIN' DAVE SET

FOR DISCO TAKE-OFF

Tyneside pop sensation Dave Maughan can't wait to loose his job! That was the news from teenage popster Dave, as his pop group LOW PROFILE look set to become the stars of the eighties. The group plan to turn professional, and that would mean "Cheerio!" to Dave's job as an office worker at the DHSS. And that is something Dave wouldn't mind at all!

"We have been in touch with local radio and have spent £400 on demo tapes for national distribution," says Dave, the region's follow up to Sting.

FUNKY

The all Geordie disco quintet who have been funkling audiences at the Polytechnic, The Trent House, the Percy Arms and Howlands Gill since Easter 1978 have no solid plans for future gigs, "but I write music intensively", says Dave, 20, and at six foot a sure fire hit with the chicks.

SINGLE

Dave insists that their music is contemporary rock "influenced by Yes, Genesis and Weather Report", but he can't fool the North's disco lovers who are anxiously awaiting the release of a disco double smash single featuring 'Monk Rock' ("It's getting to be a habit") and 'Disco Foot'. Jokingly, Dave says the band do not intend to release any such single.

DAVE

LIKES POP MUSIC

Dave, nicknamed 'Michael Jackson Mk II' because of his natural rhythms modestly disputes the fact that the band are disco wonders, but as their tapes receive more and more city air-play there are more than just a few dance floor ripples beginning to appear. Dave hopes eventually to get a recording contract, and we will certainly wish him luck and disco success of chart monster proportions.

A fair bet, I'd say!

WAVIS NOSE BEST!!

POP IDOL WAVIS O'SHAVE CERTAINLY NOSE WHAT HE WANTS! For so-shy Wavis, 13, has nosed his way into the heart of sex symbol IIN newscaster Anna Ford where he claims to have carved a niche for himself.

LOVE

His love for the pretty presenter blossomed when Miss Ford first showed her perfectly formed nose on BBC's science programme "Tomorrow's World".

GLUED

And Wavis' eyes are glued to the tube every time the distinctive strains of the News At Ten signature tune rings out. And Anna certainly has nosed ahead of Angela Rippon on Wavis' glamourometer!

MUSIC

Now the love struck singer has put his passions to music on his debut L.P., saucily titled "Anna Ford's Bum", which zoomed straight into the charts soon after release.

WACKY

The reclusive teenage heartthrob who hides behind the 74foot false hooter is no mean talent when it comes to crooning either. But oh-so wacky Wavis isn't fooling anyone when he sings "I'm in love with her shoe", in which he claims to have pledged his troth only to Anna's dainty footwear. You may think he's cutting off his sneek just to spite his face...

INFLUENCE

But it comes as no surprise to find such a person spouting wack! No siree! He lists among his many influences Chico Marx, Rasputin, Trungpa (Who? - thick Ed.) and the ultra zany Residents. But as to whether such outrageousness will ever capture pretty Anna's love is anybody's guess!

SOUL

As to the future, Wavis has modest ambitions - he believes that he and Anna will eventually unite as twin souls, and he hopes to start world war three, as well as scoring Scotland's winning goal in the World Cup, and to die during a mutual orgasm with Miss Ford.

BURIAL

But this young man's career, nay, his life, may be called into question if he fulfills his other ambition - premature burial! The whole wacky issue depends on how premature this burial is to be!! (A fair bet, I'd say! - Ed.)

COMPANY CARS

BY TIM HARRISON

I want a company car. The only trouble is that they don't give them to professional fishmongers - let alone fish scale scrapers.

I am prepared to wait for a while, but the frustration is building up, just like the prices. Damn Budget! (Mmm... Grrr!! Ed.) I want a car... and it must be a company car. Why a company car? Settle back, patient reader. (Gnnarr.. Ed.)

Company cars can go places other cars cannot. Do things other cars find impossible. You can drive in first gear at 50 mph in a company car. Company cars go over kerbs, scrape lamposts and generally impress the neighbours.

They glide through mud, splash through puddles and skid through snow where other cars fear to tread (or fear to lose their tread). (Vomit... Ed.) They guzzle petrol - but no one minds. They get cleaned when it rains - but it doesn't matter - and best of all, they get mended absolutely free when they break down.

If you want you could enter your company car in rough and dirty cross-country rallies. Their suspension is remarkable. Company cars bounce. Ordinary cars don't.

I have approached many people about finding company cars. All my friends have them, but if I go up to a dealer and ask if they have any in stock I just get thrown out into the street. I'd love to be run over by a company car... to feel that super metal slice me apart, feel the revving engine charge the wheels into dissecting my body. But I am getting carried away.

The adverts tell you that you can do it in an MG. Don't listen to them. You can do it in a company car, but in nothing else. It's my birthday next week. What are you going to buy me?

North Woman In Park Blitz Horror

by our legal correspondent

North Magistrates yesterday heard how a 21 year old housewife and her 2 year old daughter were terrified as bullets from a hovering helicopter whistled past their heads and damaged benches and nearby floral arrangements at the City's Exhibition Park last month.

VIETNAM

Mr Wiggy-Get, prosecuting, told the court how 46 year old D.I.Y. fanatic Arthur Gubbins had constructed a 'Vietnam style' helicopter gunship in his garden shed at Peartree Gardens, Gosforth, and flown it too the park with the intention of "hotting things up a little" by spraying holidaymakers with shells, bullets and burning petrol. Gubbins, 43, an unemployed handyman of Cedarview Ave, Gosforth, denies charges of piloting a makeshift helicopter gunship with intent to endanger life, damaging public property by means of automatic gunfire and flying without a license.

Mr Sum Hope, defending, said that Gubbins had been to see the film 'Apocalypse Now' that afternoon, and had acted irrationally and on the spur of the moment. He added that his client, a man of previous good character had since suffered feelings of remorse and intended to apologise to the people involved.

BOMBING

Gubbins, 44, of Gosforth, was until recently serving an 18 month sentence having been found guilty of bombing Germany following a one-man air raid on Cologne in July 1978.

MR. GUBBINS

At yesterday's trial an application for bail was refused by Judge Bythebook on the recommendation of the local constabulary. The case continues.

FOCUS ON FACT WITH NAYLOR HARRISON THE MINI

As is common knowledge, the mini is the latest in a long line of Audis from the workshops of Fiat, Germany's largest Volvo manufacturer. It is the first to incorporate BMW's new innovations, the rear view mirror and the steering wheel. Though a far cry from the first 'mini', the Model T Ford, it still has wheels, which previous to their invention had been optional extras. It stands at the end of a long tradition in Moskvitch cars, including the Volkswagen Beetle which was in fact not a real mini but a large motorbike, (built by Henry Ford as an ambulance). Perhaps the most famous was the open-top hatch-back 'Hoover' bubblecar, with its distinctive Land Rover styling, earning it the nickname 'Dodges' after it's inventor Sir Wilberforce Dodge. This was the car driven by John Wayne in the movie 'Greece', probably his most famous role since 'Star Wars' in which he played the robot Butch Cassidy. Famous mini drivers include Winston Churchill, the American president of the twenties and thirties, and his wife Florence Nightingale who first came into the public eye through her short lived marriage to Paul McCartney, the Liverpool fruit machine giant of the mid sixties.

See you next time.
